

Finding Quality Care

Questions To Consider

When searching for a qualified provider, you may want to ask the following questions:

- Is medically monitored detoxification provided?
- What is the facility's accreditation?
- Is gender-specific treatment offered?
- Do they offer travel assistance?
- Will my individual treatment plan address medical, psychological, & spiritual wellness as well as co-occurring concerns?

Welcome to Keystone

Our Services

Since 1973, Keystone Treatment Center has provided transformative care rooted in spiritual and cultural values. Our comprehensive services assist those who are living with substance use disorders, gambling addiction, and co-occurring concerns.

Our full continuum of care includes:

- Detoxification
- Inpatient treatment
- Intensive outpatient services

The overarching goal of our programming, which is based on the 12-Step philosophy, is to help patients work toward long-term recovery and improve their overall quality of life. With an array of specialty tracks, we provide focused care to help people from all walks of life embark on a path to better health.

The Keystone Experience

When you choose Keystone, you can receive care in an atmosphere that fosters honesty, trust, and accountability. We take an individualized approach to care, which means that each patient is assessed to ensure that they receive a treatment plan that reflects their unique needs. Patients can expect to follow a schedule that balances treatment services with plenty of time for breaks, self-reflection, and recreation.

Each day, patients have access to a range of effective, time-tested treatment modalities that can help them take strides toward improved functioning. Depending on a person's treatment plan, their care may include:

- Detox services
- Medication management services
- Individual, family, group, & experiential therapies
- Educational programming
- Medical care

Our programs are led by a multidisciplinary team that includes psychiatrists, licensed psychologists, certified chemical dependency counselors, a recreational therapist, an addictionologist, and social workers.

Medical Detoxification

Detoxification at Keystone Treatment Center begins with round-the-clock services monitored by physicians, physician assistants, registered nurses, licensed practical nurses, and other designated staff members. Keystone Treatment Center has an addictionologist physician on staff who has more than 40 years of experience treating withdrawal and addiction. Detoxification services are only offered for patients who are receiving inpatient treatment. Our nationally recognized and accepted detoxification protocols have been specifically developed as a preferred treatment for withdrawal from alcohol, methamphetamines, and opioids. In some cases, withdrawal from various substances may become life-threatening, and having highly trained medical staff is imperative.

Outpatient Services

At the completion of programming, patients receive detailed continuing care plans that can help them build on the progress they made during treatment. We are pleased to offer our recovery maintenance group for patients following discharge. This program gives individuals a valuable opportunity to practice accountability and enhance skills during the early stages of recovery.
